Get yourself approved—guaranteed!

Having your application rejected for a loan, credit card, rental property or job can be disappointing. However, this doesn't mean the end of the line! Here's how you can turn that no into a yes for . . .

Loans and credit cards!

Thanks to a new law, if you're denied a mortgage, credit card, private student loan or small business loan, or given one with a less favorable rate, the lender must provide a letter detailing the exact reasons why and include the credit score it used to arrive at its decision. Once you find out what's blocking your approval—such as late payments or even an application that wasn't filled out correctly—you can make the fixes and resubmit!

Rentals!

Want to move to a new apartment or house but the landlord rejected you due to a spotty credit record? Many will reverse their decision if you offer to pay a few months of rent in advance or provide letters from previous landlords detailing your excellent on-time payment record!

Jobs!

Didn't get the position you interviewed for and not sure why? Send an e-mail to the human resources department or hiring manager with whom you met and ask for feedback to find out the reason. Many will gladly provide a brief explanation, which can help you tailor your résumé, interview or job skills so you can nail your next interview!

Tip!

Rejected for health insurance due to pre-existing conditions? Due to recent changes in health-care laws, pre-existing condition insurance plans are now offered in every state at an affordable rate. To apply, head to PCIP.gov.

Make better shopping decisions every time!

Ever get buyer's remorse? Here's how to sidestep shopping regrets: Stop before you reach the store—for instance, by turning on your favorite music!

A new study reveals that shoppers in upbeat moods are happier with their choices than those feeling downbeat. Turns out, a positive mood helps you evaluate a product's attributes more easily!

Double donation with one question!

Helping raise money for a cause? Before you request a donation, ask a potential donor if she's given before. If not, tell her how much money is still needed to reach the goal. If not, tell her how much money the group has already raised. Why? For people who already care about your cause, it prompts them to jump on board. And if she hasn't donated before, already-accrued funds prove to her that the group is worthy of contributions!

Don't throw that away!

ID spare keys with bread tags!

Have extra car, house, garage, locker and other keys lying around? Avoid mixing them up or, worse, accidentally throwing them away because you forgot what they were for by attaching plastic bread tags to them! Simply snap one onto the key's hole, then use a permanent marker to write down what it's for!
